Alcohol and the Death Rate.

In 1910 the per capita consumption of alcoholic beverages in the United States was 19.69 gallons. In 1919 it reached 21.40 gallons, an increase of 117 per cent.

Since 1910 the death-rate in the Registration States from degenerative diseases in which alcohol is conceded to be an important causative factor, has increased 194 per cent.

That alcohol is the sole, or even the chief cause of this increase cannot be authoritatively stated, but that it is a powerful factor is undebatable.

It is worthy of note that although the use of wines has increased only 25 per cent, and spirits 7.9 per cent, malt liquors show an increase of 139 per cent. Evidently beer is not so harmless a beverage as some people imagine.

The strain of modern existence is beginning to tell. While gross intemperance is being more and more condemned, tipping and social drinking among the masses would appear to be increasing. Possibly the nervous excitement of American life increases the desire for what we call a "stimulant," but what in reality is a depressing narcotic—a "deadener," instead of a "bracer."

A hopeful sign is the growing tendency to abstinence among the leading men and women of the Nation. A reform commencing at the top, will progress more rapidly, because of the powerful influence of fashion. When it becomes odd to drink, fear of public opinion may make for temperance more surely than fear of moral or physical injury.

Alcohol weakens the resistance to disease. In acute illnesses—grippe, fever, blood-poisoning, etc.—substances are formed in the blood termed "anti-bodies" which antagonize the action of bacteria, facilitating their destruction by the white blood-cells, and neutralizing their poisonous influence. In a person with "good resistance" this protective machinery, which we do not yet thoroughly understand, works with beautiful precision, and the patient "gets well."

Experiments by scientific experts have demonstrated that alcohol restrains the formation of these marvelous "anti-bodies."

Alcohol puts to sleep the sentinels that guard your body from disease.

Policyholders are warned against advertisements extolling the value of whiskey in disease. The callous cruelty of such advertisements lies in the fact that they appeal to the very people who are most injured by the use of alcohol—sufferers from rheumatism, chronic kidney disease, nervous subjects, etc.

There is no such thing as a "medicinal" whiskey. One pure whiskey is as good (or as bad) as another. Do not take alcohol as a remedy except on the advice of a thoroughly up-to-date physician. Who is free from prejudice. — Medical Dept. of a Life Insurance Co.

TUSCULUM.

In Memory of Edgar French. On the 19th day of April, 1911, after a lingering illness of several months, caused from measles, he stepped from the stage of action into the realm from which no traveler has ever returned. He was a consistent Christian and fell asleep being weary of life. He loved the beautiful and his aspirations were that he might rise above the struggling mass and be a true and loyal citizen of his country and a blessing to his community. He acquired a good education and taught school. He often repeated what Horace Greeley said, "Go West, young man, and grow up with the country."

His heart was set on the west and in the spring of 1908 he went to Cherokee, Okla., where he found employment and being enraptured with life he went to Texas where he engaged in concrete work. He soon found that there is more room at the top and so resolved to go to the top. He commanded the respects of his fellow workmen and was soon a leader amongst them. In the full of his manhood when hopes were brightest he contracted measles which resulted in his death. He left the "Star of the West" and came home last September in hopes of regaining his health, but such was not to be. He bore his suffering patiently and often said that he was ready to meet his Savior. He is gone, but not forgotten.

He had reached his twenty-third milestone, before he threw off his mantle to put on a robe of righteousness. Peace to his ashes.

NOTES OF THE FARM.

COLUMN OF INTERESTING NEWS THAT WILL BENEFIT FARMERS.

With the Live Stock.

Take no chances with an old boar; always keep behind him.

Pigs that are apt to have "differences of opinion" should be separated. Fighting takes off flesh.

There should be placed in every pig yard and pasture a box with salt, charcoal, air-dried lime, bone-meal and hardwood ashes, so the pigs can help themselves at will.

Hogs do not dig in the earth altogether for the fun of it. They get a lot to eat that way—grass roots, worms, bits of stuff of different kinds that help to make bone and muscle.

Horses with good dispositions are always safer and more valuable. Never brood a crazy-headed mare.

Raise the type of colt that will be best in your community. Select the sire and dam that will bring this type of a colt.

Do not let the little colt follow the dam while she is at work.

If the dam becomes heated the milk is injurious to the colt.

If a colt is worth raising at all he is worth raising well.

Diseases get a fast hold of many a flock of sheep through foul drinking water. Never give stagnant water for if you can help it.

A few trees in the pasture add greatly to the comfort of the sheep, these days. If you can't have them, set up a few posts and cover a bit of ground over for a shed.

To dip the flock the first warm weather is good practice, as this spares the lambs. And one of the carbolic dips is good. This poison destroys the tick and scab parasites by contact on the outside.

The Poultry Yard.

These are gala days for flocks. Fight them strong and hard. Kerogen will do a good work. Pour it in every crack and crevice. Don't spare it.

Watch the grit box. The hens are doing so. Don't let them catch you napping and the box empty.

Allow the cool air to enter the houses at night by taking out the windows, but do not forget to have inch-mesh wire netting fastened to the opening to keep out the enemies.

Watch the condition of the young chickens. If they are moping, look for the, especially the large gray louse found on the head of the chick. A drop of sweet-oil will soon end his career.

Gumption on the Farm?

Named your farm yet?

Any shade in the pasture? Why not?

If you want to kill weeds, cultivate or hoe them when the sun shines hot.

The trouble with the honey-bee is that it doesn't carry honey at both ends.

No lime is NOT good for potatoes; it favors scab. So does too much stable manure.

Now, please, don't let the mower rattle all to pieces. Keep it well oiled and every nut screwed up tightly, and don't let the knives or guards get dull.

Remember, brother farmer, that the hot weather and hard work tax the strength of your wife. She will enjoy going to the store with you and riding slowly home in the cool of the evening.

To keep moles from a bed, sink a close-mesh wire netting a foot wide into the soil around, allowing it to extend about two inches above the surface. If you have no netting, use boards. Either will prevent the entrance of moles into the bed.

The harvest season is the most trying of the year. There is so much to be done, so little time to do it in and so few hands to accomplish it, that we are often at our wit's end. Let us, however, have a care lest we attempt too much and lest we put too great a burden upon the wife and daughter.

The sanitarians are filled with men and women who have broken down from work and worry at middle age. The amount that we can hope to gain is not worth such fearful sacrifice.

Orchard and Garden.

Keep the fruit of strawberries until the time to use or market them. Never pick berries for market when they are wet.

Beware of "red rust" in blackberry or blackcap bushes. When seen promptly dig up and burn the infected plant, being careful not to scatter the fungous dust over healthy bushes.

Muscle the horses when plowing or cultivating the orchard. You and pad the whiffetree. These precautions will prevent much damage to trees. Another hint: Pad the outer edges of the harrow.

No grain or grass crops in the young orchard, please; cultivation is best. Stir the soil every two weeks until August. It is a good plan to throw two or three forkfuls of manure around each tree, after a rain.

Watch for the little slugs—darkish, slimy fellows—that are likely to be on pear or cherry leaves now. Fine, dry dust, if thrown in the trees, will kill every slug it covers. Or almost any of the regulation orchard sprays will exterminate this pest.—From Jane Farm Journal.

IN MEMORY.

On Thursday morning, May 1, 1911, our Heavenly Father came for and called to himself our dear beloved companion and mother and friend, Cora D. Queen, wife of J. C. Queen, of Garner, Ky. Cora was a daughter of John and Sarah Prichard, of Bolts Fork, Ky. She was a good woman, a good wife and a noble mother; she was born Feb. 7, 1872, at Bolts Fork. She suffered with that dreaded disease consumption. Everything was done for her that human skill could do, nothing could save her. God said she had stayed here long enough. She suffered so much, but thank God she is free from all pain and suffering now, but why she was taken from her husband and children we cannot tell, but we know the Lord hath need of her and be called her home, where parting will be no more. She is another tie to bind father and children brother and sister on to God. She was the mother of four grandchildren, boys and a sweet little girl, her oldest son, Ray, was called from Muhammad where he was attending school to come home to help wait on her. Ray's friends will never forget him for his kindness toward his mother, for he was so good to stand by her and lend a helping hand. There was never a mother more beloved by her children. She was not neglected neither day or night and while they mourn the loss of a mother here, let them look to God and trust him, one who can always help in the hour of trouble. Cora was a true Christian and died in full faith of a living God. She often told us she was ready to go and only waiting His call. There was no fear, no doubt, no dark river to cross. It is a grand consolation for the husband and children to know where she is. I will say to them, prepare yourself to meet her in Heaven. Funeral was preached at Garretts Chapel, by Bro. Leslie, after which her body was laid to rest in the Backley graveyard. A large crowd of relatives and friends gathered there to witness the last sad sight of her.

—Lizzie Queen.

NEEDFUL KNOWLEDGE.

Louisa People Should Learn to Detect the Approach of Kidney Disease.

The symptoms of kidney trouble are so unmistakable that they leave no ground for doubt. Sick kidneys excrete a thick, cloudy, or fleshy urine, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding. The back aches constantly, headaches and dizzy spells may occur and the victim is often weighed down by a feeling of languor and fatigue. Neglect these warnings and there is danger of dropsy, Bright's disease, or diabetes. Any one of these symptoms is warning enough to begin treating the kidneys at once. Delay often proves fatal.

You can use no better remedy than Doan's Kidney Pills. Here's Doan's proof:

William G. Shannon, M. D., St. Louis, Ky., says: "It gives me the greatest pleasure to recommend Doan's Kidney Pills. My kidneys annoyed me and a heavy cold which settled on these organs caused intense pains across the small of my back. The kidney sensations passed irregularly and were scanty and filled with sediment. Courses of Doan's Kidney Pills I used them and the contents of my bowels relieved me."

A man there tied his wife to a fence post and beat her to death because she joined a church. A posse is in pursuit of the murderer and a tracking is feared if he is captured. Mangala's dogs were sent for and immediately hit a trail that lead up through the mountains—Cincinnati Times.

HOME CIRCLE COLUMN.

COLUMN DEDICATED TO TIRRED MOTHERS AS THEY JOY THE HOME CIRCLE.

It's a pity that the hurrying world cannot realize more that there is something enchanting to the frank and unfailing expression of the tenderer sentiments which stir the mind and heart—that the kindly word and the cheery clasp of the hand is like a draught of water to a thirsty soul or the shadow of a great rock in a weary land. It would redouble our joys and minimize our sorrows and scatter flowers along the highway like the footfall of the spring.

You will never have a friend if you must have one without a fault.

A woman without religion is like a flower without perfume.

It is one of the paradoxes of life that the more a woman keeps her husband in hot water the colder he grows toward her.

A man will spend $25 to buy cut flowers for his dead wife's coffin, when if he had spent twenty-five cents for a bunch of flowers for her when she was alive, she would have fainted. You wait until she is dead and then get some perchance to tell how good she was.

So far as possible let all women dress beautifully; so God dresses the meadows and mountains. Let them wear pearls and diamond if they can afford it. God hung around the neck of his world strings of diamonds and braided the black locks of the storm with the bright ribbons of the rainbow.

Don't repress the buoyant spirit of your children; half an hour of merriment around lamp and firelight of a home blots out many a care and annoyance during the day, and the best safe-guard they can take with them into the world is the unbroken influence of a bright domestic circle.

Speak kindly in the morning; it lightens the cares of the day, and makes a household and all its affairs move along smoothly. Speak kindly at night, for it may be before dawn some loved one may finish his or her span of life for this world, and it will be too late to ask forgiveness.

We are often very much impressed by the woman who is doing a great and grand work for humanity, but the one who retains our respect is the true wife and mother, who presides over her home and children with a heart and head, demonstrating kindness and ability, which puts the blight on the public life.

Let the parents the father as well as the mother, impress upon their young daughters, whether they are in the country school house or college, that the true woman's sphere is in the home, and the great business and educational world for women does not detract one iota from its importance of her sphere.

Put home first and foremost, for there will come a time when the home circle will be broken, when you long for the touch of a vanished hand and the sound of a voice that still haunts your greatest pleasure will be in remembering that you did all in your power to put a song under every burden, to make each

COUNTRY TOWN SAVINGS.

If a dreamer promises a woman a dress on a certain day, she'd better have it ready.

When people say they will help you in time of trouble, thank them, and don't count on it too much.

A woman's idea of art is to make a dinner so elaborate that the guests will not know how to eat it.

When a man quits abusing his rival, it is a sign he has his rival down.

As a rule, people are disappointed in compliments; they always expect more.

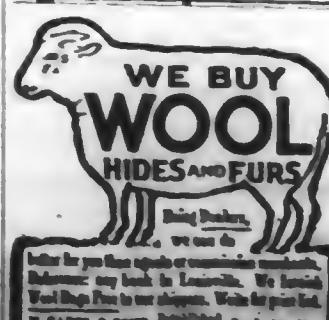

Your best friend has a question or two he would like to ask you, if he dared. Keep up the bar, that he will not dare.

Nearly every man thinks he has done a great deal for the town he which he lives, if he has not actually made it famous.

Speaking of total wrecks, our notice a dinner table after the guests have all had their fill, and pushed back to talk?

FOREMOST CLOTHIERS SINCE 1890.

Young Men

As a rule agree on the style of their clothes; but they disagree generally on patterns & colors.

Therefore, we must & do provide such a profusion of different patterns & colorings & models, too, that each may have INDIVIDUALITY in his clothes without sameness or variation from the modish fashions for young men.

Four prices: $15 $18 $20 $22 & exceptional values at each figure.

Fully hand tailored & guaranteed satisfactory.

Select patterns of tan & grays & of course, blue wedges; Two and three button coats, (mostly 2), long graceful lapels, perfect back lines, shoulders and collar; peg trousers, with 3-inch turn up at bottom—every little thing a man likes in his clothes.
